

ABSTRACT

1 Manually adjustable hinges for gates, doors and other hinge applications where a first 2 hinge is adjustable using an ordinary wrench in a first direction coaxial with the hinge pin, and as 3 the first hinge is adjusted in the first direction the other hinges follows the movement of the first 4 hinge to prevent the first hinge from binding the other hinges. All hinges are manually 5 adjustable in a second direction perpendicular to the hinge pin using the wrench.